According to the National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS), you have one or more student loans that were discharged due to a total and/or permanent disability. A total and permanent disability is either:

1. A condition of an individual who is unable to engage in a substantially gainful activity by means of a medically determinable physical or mental impairment that can be expected to continue indefinitely or result in death
2. Has been determined to be unemployable due to a service connected disability by the Department of Veteran Affairs

Would you like to be considered for a Federal Title IV Student loan and/or Federal TEACH grant? (Please place a check on one of the responses below.)

Yes, I wish to be considered for Federal Title IV student loans and/or Federal TEACH grant and my previous disability discharge was not determined by the VA. By initialing each section and signing below, you certify:

1. You are aware that the new FSA loan can't later be discharged for any present impairment unless it deteriorates so that you are again permanently disabled.

2. You are aware collection activity will resume on any loans in a conditional discharge period

_____ *If you are attempting to obtain new loans within the three year conditional discharge period or post-discharge monitoring period, you acknowledge that the suspension of collection activity on the loans will be lifted.

_____ *In addition, the suspension of collection activity on loans in the conditional discharge period or post-discharge monitoring period must be lifted before the borrower can receive the new loan. (This means that the loan is no longer conditionally discharged and you are responsible for repaying it.)

_____ *Unless your condition substantially deteriorates, the old loan can't be discharged in the future for any impairment present when you began the conditional discharge or when you tried to get the new loan.

3. You have attached a letter from a licensed MD, on letterhead, stating that you have the ability to engage in substantial gainful activity.
